MICROCOSM

WORLD OF difference

From all over the world, we came to Simmons College for different reasons. Many of us began our college careers with the intention to grow as an individual and prepare for the job market.

As four years of independence and responsibilities progressed, we formed a community, a Microcosm, of the world, where we were able to learn, gain experience, and mature. Most importantly we learned to learn from whatever opportunities that came along our paths. Each of us were able to contribute what we can to make changes and differences and apply to it not only to ourselves and the Simmons community, but also to the world in general.

A Microcosm, according to Webster's dictionary is anything that is a diminutive, representative world. We, as the Simmons community, are proud to be a Microcosm of the "real world". Our community has prepared us for what is to come. Most of us participated in groups, clubs, or liaisons; others may have internships, field work, or independent studies. Not only did we learn from our studies, we were also shaped by our friends, professors, and families in an unique urban environment.

Regardless of how we spend our time at Simmons, each of us will leave with our original goal achieved - to grow as an individual. For many of us however, we will depart Simmons College with much more than we had imagined. As we prepare to graduate, we will take with us the experience, our self-confidence, and our knowledge to make a difference. Our Microcosm will enter the Macrocosm and we will once again be faced with establishing goals and facing challenges. Now we are ready, we have the ability to make a world of difference.

AWAY

A Week in a Life of Dana

Born in Ann Arbor, Michigan, Dana Jo Spangler was raised in Cicero, a small town in Indiana. Coming to Boston four years ago was a major shock as it was her first time being away from home.

She chose Simmons because she thought it would be a great opportunity to experience city life. It also gave her a chance to play basketball, and became captain of the team her sophomore year. A senior, Dana is studying to be a physical therapist, since she has always wanted to work in sports medicine. Even though her social life is limited due to her tough curriculum, she takes advantage of her rare free time by enjoying the company of her friends. One of her favorite tension breakers is playing a couple of games of Tetris on her computer.

Going home to Indiana is a rare, but is a very special occasion because she is very close to her parents and her older brother, who is also a senior in college. She has no specific plans for when she leaves Simmons except the usual: find a job, get married and start a family.

Her philosophy is "I am welcome to do anything that makes me happy. I live each day as it comes, as one cannot look too far into the future."

SENIORS

Running in and out of the Student Activities center, wearing her blue Simmons sweat shirt, favorite blue plaid sweat pants, and her blonde hair in a ponytail is the way most members of the Simmons community will remember Melissa Bachelder. She is an extrodinary example of the dedication and service many seniors have added to the Simmons community.

Melissa has experienced Simmons in many different ways. She is an advertising as well as an economics major and hopes to venture into the advertising copy writing field. In addition to having a double concentration, Melissa is a tutor for the economics department.

Melissa has made a difference in the Simmons community by becoming active throughout her four years here at Simmons. Her past offices and activities include: Smith Hall President, Vice-president, and treasurer, Junior class president and Vice president, and Chair of the Big Sister/Little Sister Committee. Currently, she of president of the Senior class. As president, Melissa has enhanced the class with both academic programming and social events.

UNDERGRADUTES

Racewalking has been a big part of Gretchen Eastler's life since she was nine years old. Eastler, a physical therapy major realized her Olympic dream could someday become a reality when she set her first national record in the 300 meter when she was seventeen years old.

The summer after she graduated from high school, Eastler raced at the Junior World Track and Field Championships. Since then, she has raced each summer for the United States team. The United States team has traveled to countries such as Bulgaria, Jamaica, and Sweden that gave Eastler a world of experience.

Eastler says her next goal is to make the Senior National Team and compete, again, this summer. She would eventually like to race in the Olympics and says she would not stop walking until she reaches her dream.

The Farmington, Maine native, is a cross country ambassador, says she loves Simmons because of the wonderful people she has met while she has been a student here three years ago.

FACULTY

You do not have to be majoring in the Communications Department to know who Bob White is. Although he claims to be "just like everybody else," he's not. Not only does he look different, with his long hair and flowing beard that covers most of his face, but according to many students, he is more than just a professor, he is someone a student can feel comfortable with just sitting down and talking about the new heavy metal bands or recent movie releases.

White has been at Simmons for twenty two years. Students, faculty, and the administration know White is teaching Communications Media, one of his most popular classes, when you hear music, especially Bohemian Rhapsody blaring out of C-103. He also teaches Video Production and Independent Study, which was originally set up in the Communications department so students could study certain things that were not originally offered at Simmons. Lately, the independent study has been focusing in on computer animation, something White specializes in.

White is also a faculty advisor for students, commuter organization, and the undergoing new radio station for Simmons, although he is very supportive of any organization on campus. He is often found at the bake sales buying goodies to show that support. White also gets involved over the residence campus by reading stories at Halloween and Christmas in the dorms at Tea on Fridays.

VICE PRESIDENT

SIMMONS COLLEGE
300 THE FENWAY
BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS 02115-5898

To The Class of 1993:

"What our idea may accomplish, however, will be determined by you young women." President Henry Lefavour opened Simmons College with those words. During all the changes that have taken place since in our College, those words hold true. Teaching does not take place except in the presence of learning, and in your time with us your success has been our success.

When you leave Simmons this statement will be even more true. It is the professional development of our alumnae which really testifies to the value if their Simmons education. As you graduate you join a group of exceedingly accomplished women. Their presence is both a reassurance and a challenge. What they have done you can aspire to, but they have done a lot.

I also hope that you have enjoyed your time here. These have been four interesting and challenging years in the history of our College and your class has contributed to many of the most positive changes we have made while you were here. We opened the Sports Center just in time to be of benefit to your class, improved our food service and expanded our social programs.

The world you go out into is equally challenging, the tremendous changes in the politics of international affairs is more than matched by the increasing availability of that world. Simmons has become more international during your time here, and I hope that you will maintain that international interest through study and travel. The domestic economy is not equally exciting and yet Simmons graduates have a tradition a creating positions where, sometimes, there were no positions.

Finally, I share the adventure of your leaving more than with any other class because I, too, will be leaving Simmons this year. Not graduating, but facing a new world, with new demands and challenges. I wish you all well.

Yours,

William J. Holmes

DEAN of COLLEGE

SIMMONS COLLEGE
300 THE FENWAY
BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS 02115-5898

Dear Members of the Class of 1993,

As time passes, it will become increasingly difficult for you to remember the "Great Expectations" you had upon arrival at Simmons College. The Orientation Committee had selected that theme and the acorn as the logo for your class with the hope that each of you would prosper in this community by defining your potential and challenging yourself and the College to meet those expectations.

And now as you leave the College, the Microcosm editors hope to define, through words and pictures, a "World of Difference." What an appropriate theme! Whether you define "world" as individual, as Simmons College, as Boston and Massachusetts, as our nation, or indeed the world, four years have seen phenomenal change. Each of you has been a participant in that change and more important each of you has, I hope, been encouraged to become leaders in tomorrow's "World of Difference".

The challenges and expectations of our society seem at times overwhelming. How can we possibly embrace the solutions of such issues as world hunger, environmental devastation, the federal deficit, racism, sexism, homophobia, drug abuse, violence, AIDS, homelessness, and illiteracy? How can we keep a sense of optimism that indeed there are solutions?

The source of my own peace of mind is the confidence I have in each of you and in the education you received at Simmons College. Many if you will be assuming positions of leadership either in world of national organizations, your professions, and/or your communities. And all of you will have personal interaction with friends, family, and colleagues. If you take to those relationships intelligence, tolerance, respect, ethical principles, confidence, and a sense of humor, plus your own unique skills, knowledge, and talents, you will affect positive change. You have done so at Simmons College and in our community your presence has made a "World of Difference."

You have found your voices; we all look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Charlotte Morocco

ANNUAL EVENTS

Have you often thought how nice it would be to have your mother here for comfort and support on those rotten days that you'd like to forget about? Well for most of us, that would be difficult. Our mothers are back home, with the rest of the family, but for Johanna Bloom, a senior majoring in International Relations and Political Science, the past four years have been a little different than most students.

Bloom's mother is the head of the Children's Literature Department here at Simmons. Johanna admits that, "at first I thought it would be awful to have my mom at school with me, I thought that she would be checking up on me," but now realizes that her mom did nothing of the sort, instead she let Johanna be her own person.

"It's been nice having my mother around. We can have lunch together, and when I have a serious problem, she's here." Not only is she a mother to Johanna, Mrs. Bloom is a mom to almost all her friends. "At one point or another, most all my friends have talked to her, and/or asked her for advice," said Bloom.

What makes this mother/daughter relationship unique is that Mrs. Bloom is an alumna of Simmons College. She is proud to have her daughter follow in her footsteps.

The Sirens, Simmons College's hottest new a cappella group, was formed in the fall of 1989 by seven women who wanted to do more than just sing with a piano. Thus, Sirens was born: a women's a cappella group with the intentions to sing, entertain and enjoy all types of music..

To date, the Sirens have performed with men's a cappella groups such as Tufts' Beezlebubs, Yale's Baker's Dozen, and the co-ed Harvard Opportunes, to name a few. In addition, the Sirens have been invited to sing in a cappella jamborees at Bowdoin College, Wheaton College, and in Boston University's Beanpot jam.

The Sirens have been asked in numerous occasions to sing for Simmons functions as well as off-campus events such as the presidents's 1899 Club dinner at the Ritz-Carlton, Christmas parties, Admissions events, and at Faneuil Hall at Christmas time.

In its forth year the group hopes to continue as strong as its been and thanks the Simmons community for its much-appreciated support.

LIAISONS

Art & Music

Every academic department at Simmons has an organization known as a liaison, which is comprised of students interested or concentrating in that department. One of the main purposes of liaisons is to ensure that students are satisfied with their courses and/or instructor. They conduct evaluations of every course offered by each department.

In addition, liaison members also plan educational and social functions to bring students and faculty together, thus helping to build a friendly, open feeling among members of the Simmons community.

RESIDENTIAL LIFE

The seven dorms along Brookline Avenue and Pilgrim Road have their own personality. But Arnold Hall has always had the reputation of a party dorm. There were never parties in Arnold, but it is the women in Arnold that knows how to have fun.

This year there were changes beyond Arnold women's control. Because the administration recognized the women of Arnold Hall as fun and spirited, they choose to house L.I.F.E. men in the first two floors of Arnold Hall. The L.I.F.E. students were also housed in Simmons Hall. This decision made by the administration made many Simmons students angry. Women were more angry about the fact that students were not asked about the issue before the decision was made. Last May, there was a rally protesting the decision and for women's rights.

The women in Arnold learned to live with them whether they like it or not. There are still angry women in Arnold but there are some that are taking advantage of this situation. Some were interested in their culture, many partied with them, and most received help in Spanish from them.

According to Arnold Hall residents, there were inevitable problems. The most damaging problem was that the spirit of Arnold Hall diminished greatly. The lack of women and the lack of freshmen prevented the women to bond as they did in the past. The women of Arnold are still trying to fight and uphold their reputation.

"A woman without a man is like a fish without a bicycle" - Gloria Steinman & U2

"...and we were 40 women living like 40 fish with 41 bicycles and of the women in Arnold Hall remain as they have always been and endure to be."

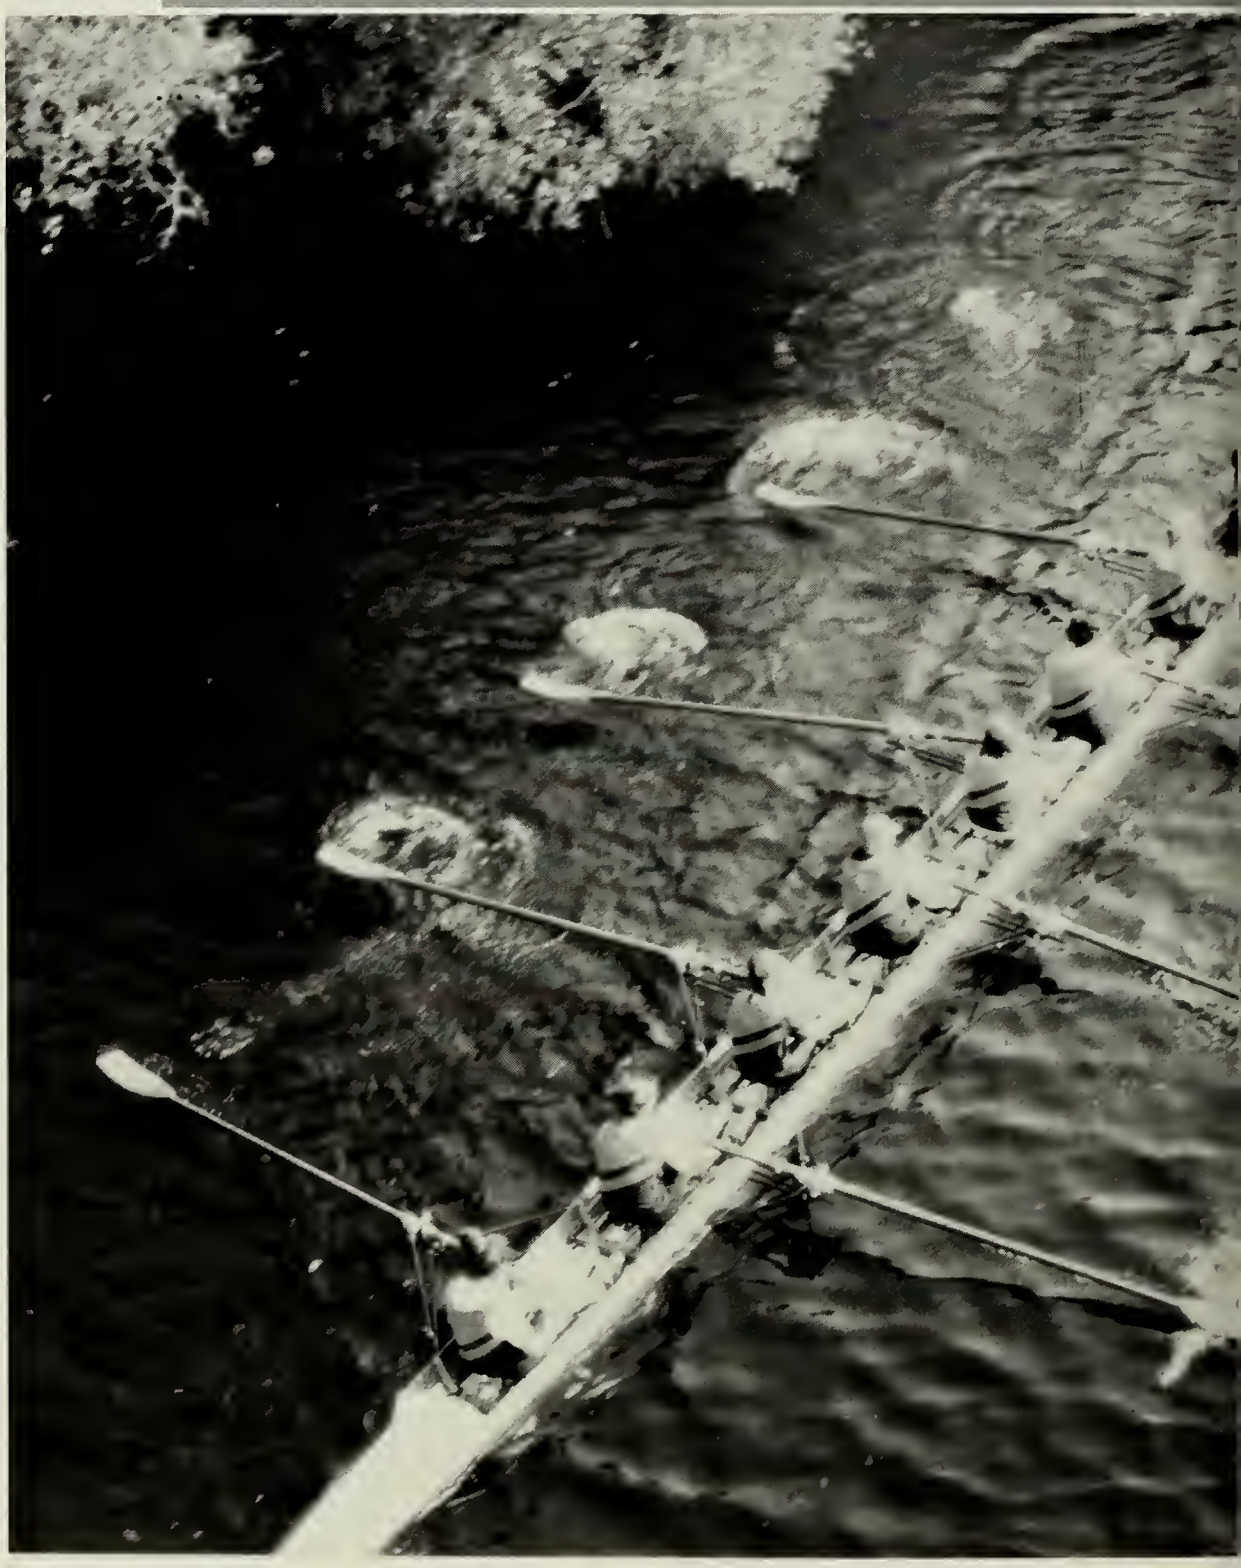
Commuters

Simmons College is filled with countless diverse groups. Many languages and many cultures intergrade at Simmons. Women come from all corners of the wor to be educated here. But the one place a visitor can find all of ther together is the Commuter Loung Commuters at Simmons come from all around the Boston area, but they don't limit themselves t befriending only those close to them. Everyone is welcome into the pleasant, somewhat mad wo of the commuters.

A commuter is easy to spot. Always on the move, a commute got lots to say and not very muc time to say it, usually racing to class or to catch a train. And whe they finally do get to slow down, they can be found in groups studies or heated talks in the lounge. And a commuter doesn't care who you are. If you've got something to contribute, or even you just want to listen in, any on is welcome into their circle. They are a fast-paced, jovial bun and a commuter can always be counted on as a friend. Commut- ing life at Simmons is a great experience.

SPORTS



You would often find her at the Sports Center or out on the Windsor Field kicking a ball. A senior, Rachel Gladstone, has been playing soccer for the Simmons College team for four years. Now, as the co-captain of the team for the second year, Gladstone says she hopes she and her teammates were able to boost Simmons' reputation during those four years. "I hope I've used my voice in a positive way to hopefully bring about some needed changes, and I hope I've made soccer fun for the people I've spent the last four years with." said Gladstone.

Not only is she a soccer player, she has been able to maintain her studies here at Simmons. Gladstone, a education major made a difference on the soccer field while Simmons has made a difference on her. She said that she has become more self-assured and more self confident since she came to Simmons. "I've learned a lot about the different people, places, and things that I might have never been exposed to if I weren't at Simmons", said Gladstone.

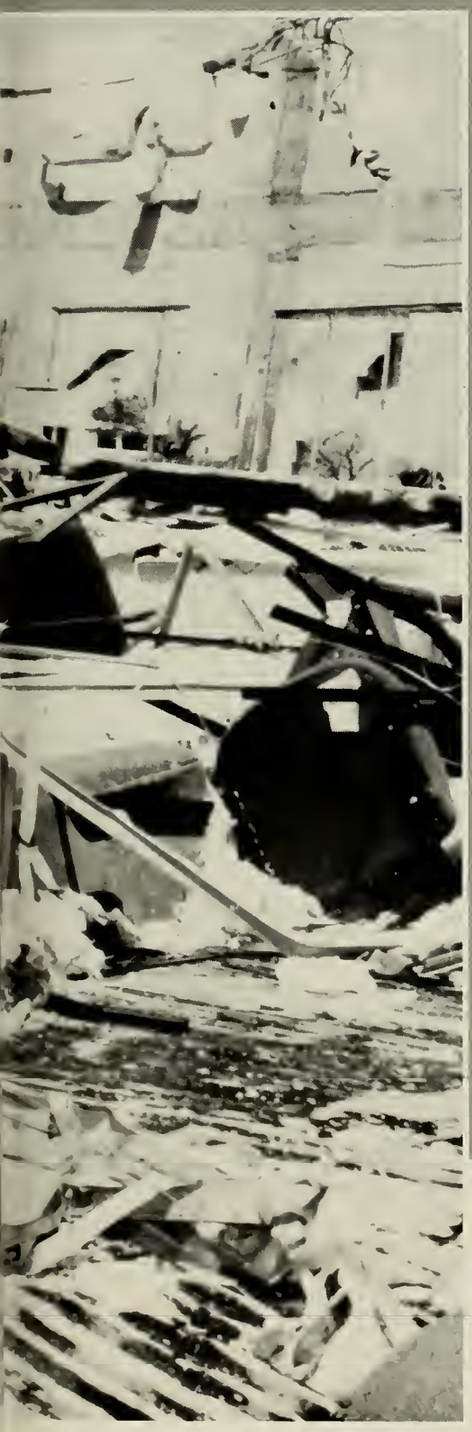
CURRENT EVENTS



As the world continues to change, so does the community of Simmons College. After twenty years of dedication to Simmons College, President William J. Holmes will be leaving the Simmons community to retire. Under the direction of President Holmes, changes have been instituted which have effected the Simmons Community in a variety of ways.

Over the past twenty years the Park Science Center has been built, which provided a place to Simmons enhance its growing science departments. The Sports for Simmons campaign was launched which in part funded the building of the Sports Center. Both the Science Center and the Sports Center, had profound effects on education and unification of the student body. Finally, one of the most impressive changes during Holmes' term, was the growth of the graduate programs and the notion of Simmons College as a small university rather than a small college.

On May 16, 1993, as Simmons College graduates another class of seniors, the college will also be saying good-bye to a dedicated President. Throughout his twenty years of service, President Holmes, has instituted many changes and many new programs for the Simmons Community. As Simmons steps into the future it will continue to change with the times, however, the instrumental changes and improvements, made over the past two decades under the direction of William J. Holmes will be remembered.

Jean Dowdall appointed first woman president of Simmons

By Michelle Purdum
Editorial Staff

While Simmons students were anxiously studying for finals last semester, the Simmons Corporation overwhelmingly voted in a new president of the College.

Jean Dowdall, the appointee, will begin her tenure in July as Simmons' fifth president and, judging from community response, her reception will be warm and welcome.

Chair of the Corporation Jean Warburg summed up Corporation members' opinions of the decision when she said of Dowdall, "[She] will energize the community and lead Simmons into the twenty-first century with warmth, wit, and wisdom."

Even the person on whose desk Dowdall will be putting her family pictures come July is optimistic about her capabilities. President William Holmes said that Dowdall "certainly brings appropriate experience to the position" and "has a clear sense of how a college operates."

Dowdall's Dec. 14 appointment is the culmination of a nine-month search process conducted by a committee comprised of Corporation members, students, faculty, and staff, representing a wide variety of College interests. This group received nominations, pored over hundreds of resumes and dossiers, interviewed nominees and, ultimately, made its unanimous recommendation to the Corporation.

According to Committee Chair Linda Paresky, Dowdall "has the leadership capacity to help Simmons unleash its great potential."

In a conversation with Paresky, the search consultant, Dr. Christine Young, relayed her satisfaction with Dowdall. "As a consultant, you can hope for a good process, you can hope for good people," said Young. "But to get all three was very special."

Vice President Carol Leary, who is still uncertain of her position in the Dowdall administration, also participated in the search process. She emphasized her choice based on addressing the needs of Simmons a a whole, with a vision of growth.

"I think Dr. Dowdall has many of the ideals that the community established in the planning process for the future of Simmons College."

Deborah DiBiase, SGA president and one of the student members of the search committee said that the idea of having a female president was an inspiration to students. She compared her perception to peoples' feelings about Dowdall to national sentiment regarding the recent change over to the Clinton administration.

"We've finally got somebody we care about and who we think cares about us and will represent how we feel and think," said DiBiase, adding, "Without even becoming part of the administration yet, she is the essence of Simmons."

A random survey of Simmons students revealed that, while some students remain surprisingly unaware of Dowdall's imminent arrival and lack information about her particular qualifications, many share DiBiase's sentiment.

"I think it's a good that we finally have a woman president," said freshman Diana Hu. "It's a women's college, we should have a woman (president)."

To others, capability was the more relevant issue. While freshwoman Neith Preston was "really surprised that (Simmons) didn't have a woman president before," she said that she doesn't believe gender is the most important factor.

"It's the person that gets the job done'" said Preston.

Sophomore Katherine Leonard agreed, saying, "I think it's important to know what she can do for us." Leonard expressed an interest in learning more about Dowdall's views on women's issues and the scope of her future goals for Simmons.

Simmons first female president, Dr. Jean A. Dowdall

Many others among Simmons' faculty and staff said they regretted not having had the opportunity to meet Dowdall, as they had been away or too busy when she visited the campus. The consensus offered by these people was, however, was that they were impressed and satisfied with the comments of their colleagues who had met with Dowdall.

Robert Stueart, Dean of the Graduate School of Library and Information Science, said that he thinks the decision to have Dowdall as Simmons' next president was "very good."

"I'm hoping of course, that she has the broad perspective of graduate education as well as undergraduate education ," said Stueart, speaking about the College's growing graduate student population. "It's important to have someone in that position who understands graduate education. I believe that she has that perspective."

Regarding the fact that Dowdall will be Simmons' first woman president one staff member said that there was no doubt in his mind that the appointee would be female.

"It was obvious that there had to be a woman, or there would have been a rebellion, probably," said Herb Levine senior programming analyst for Computer Facilities. "It was the proper thing to do, having a woman at a woman's institution."

Cautious optimism is the key phrase in describing the overall reactions of Simmons community members to Dowdall's appointment. Respondents said they want to believe that the outcome will be addressed, but are tempering their hopes with realism because much is still unknown.

"I'm hopeful that there'll be some good changes," said Levine. "We'll know after the first year I guess." ❑

Deans Morocco and Coghlan to Retire in June 1993

By Karen Boss
Editorial Staff

Dean of the College Charlotte Morocco and Dean of Sciences Anne Coghlan will retire their positions at Simmons after 23 and 30 years of service, respectively.

"It's right for me personally. It's time," Morocco said. She said she also feels the decision is right for Simmons. "The new president can start with fresh administration," she said.

Coghlan said, "It's time for my retirement. I'll be 66 in June and I've been in school 61 years. It's a normal time to retire."

Morocco was originally hired for a one-year temporary position in 1970 and stayed on to love Simmons and what it means to her. "It's a place I never thought I'd love. Boy, was I surprised," she said.

Morocco was hired by the last president, William Park, and became Acting Dean at the same time President William Holmes was hired as President of the College.

Coghlan, tenured as an Assistant in 1965 when she received her Ph.D., was made a full professor in 1970, and became the Chairman of the Biology Department in 1972. She was made Dean in 1977 and ran the Physical Therapy department until 1980.

Morocco said she is glad to be leaving at the same time as President Holmes. "I'm pleased the president wanted me to stay until he leaves. He and I became in together, and will go out together."

Coghlan is also glad to be leaving with the President, whom she feels has done "a super job."

Dean of the College Charlotte Morocco

President Holmes and Vice President Carol Leary viewed the deans' decisions to retire as very sad, but added that the women have each had a full and satisfying careers at Simmons, that it's their decision to move on, and that they wish them well.

There are no present plans to fill the position that will be vacant in June. According to Leary, the filling of the positions hasn't been discussed yet since it's so early in the year.

According to Morocco, if the Corporation offers a candidate the presidential position in January, there will be plenty of time to fill the position of the Dean of the College before the fall semester.

Leary said, "When people leave Simmons, nothing is usually done until the spring."

Before she leaves her position in June, Morocco says she mostly just wants to have a good last year and leave Simmons with a good feeling. "The President and I just want to have a good time [with our last year]," she said. "I hope it's a positive year."

She also stated that as she leaves, she is "optimistic about Simmons' future." She said she thinks Simmons is a great institution, and said, "I have a feeling of excitement about where this place is going."

Coghlan also said she felt good about Simmons, and is very excited about the prospect of a new president. "I'm looking forward to the changes coming to Simmons."

Morocco's plans for the future are unclear. "As a single woman, I'm free to go where I want. I'm not really worried about it." Although she's not positive about what she'll be doing a year from now, she did say she will be leaving the Boston area. "I don't have any family here," Morocco said.

Coghlan has more specific plans. As Chairman of the Board of Milton Hospital from 1980--1986, she now plans on writing a book on the history of the hospital. "It's time for somebody to do it."

Morocco's advice to an incoming dean would be.

"In this job, you have to love what you are doing, the bad with the good."

She said she believes in the students at Simmons. "I love who comes to school here," she said, and advised a new dean to, "Get direction from the students, they'll help you do the job."

As a 1948 Simmons graduate, Coghlan agrees with Morocco. "The students are the key."

Finally, Morocco commented, "I hope it's a positive year. I have a serious spot in my heart for this place."

With a smile on her face, Morocco said, "It's time for new experiences." ❑

Students angry over vacation housing policy problems

By Marci Levine
Staff Writer

This year's vacation housing, while a convenience for some, resulted in incident reports and aggravation for others.

"A handful of people made the entire group look really bad," said Residence Life Office Manager Karen Savage. "We want to treat students as adults, but we get stuck sometimes because things we expect to happen, don't."

This year, approximately 60 people were housed over break. The vacation residents included Simmons athletes, work study-students, student teachers, and others who needed to be in the area during December break. Each of the students was briefed on rules and expectations regarding her stay in Simmons Hall vacation housing.

"We kill more trees with this process," said Assistant Director of Residence Life Jay Hargis, referring to several memos that were distributed to the students, as well as a packet including the rules and regulations of their stay.

"The rules are handed out separately to insure that they read it all," said Savage.

Goodbye Bush, Hello Clinton!!

By Kristin Heineman
Editorial Staff

After an arduous campaign marked by hostility, negativity, and character assassinations, Gov. Bill Clinton of Arkansas defeated Incumbent President George Bush in a landslide electoral victory Tuesday night to become the 42nd president of the United States.

Winning 370 of 558 electoral votes, giving him more than the 270 needed to win, Clinton swept the Northeast states, as well as California, New York, and Ohio, all states with large electoral shares. Clinton won 32 of the 50 states, as well as Washington D.C.. Bush won 18, including Florida and Texas. Texas billionaire Perot won no electoral votes.

Regarding popular votes, Clinton finishes with 43,654,863 (43%), Bush with 38,088,896 (38%), and Perot with 19,203,583 (19%), according to the Boston Globe's city desk.

Clinton's win Tuesday ended 12 years of Republican rule in the White House; the last Democrat in the Oval Office was Jimmy Carter, who was defeated in 1980 by Ronald Reagan. Here in Massachusetts, Clinton received roughly 53 percent of the popular vote, not surprisingly considering the state's voting history.

Clinton, in his acceptance speech, attributed his victory to virtually everyone he knew, from his family to his campaign staff to the voters. He also put emphasis on his running mate, Sen. Al Gore, who "Got him where he was today." Clinton also commended his see Clinton*, p. 12*

Is Simmons Really a Co-Ed College?

By Kassie Kimbriel
Staff Writer

There is nothing to prevent Simmons from awarding undergraduate degrees to men, according to the Simmons Foundation and Charter, The charter, until 1944 stated that Simmons was "an institution in which instruction might be given to women in such branches of art, science, and industry as would best enable the scholars to acquire an independent livelihood (Chapter 395, Acts of 1899)."

In 1945, however, a certificate of change of purpose in the charter was approved, granting Simmons the right to award honorary degrees and undergraduate degrees to men. The change also eliminated the word "women" from the original charter, replacing it with "persons." The amended charter now reads: "The purpose of such corporation shall be to furnish to persons instructions and training in such branches of art, science, and industry as may be serviceable in enabling them to acquire a livelihood (Chapter 189, Section 10)."

According to an issue of The Simmons News dated May 22, 1947, seven male candidates received bachelor's degrees from the School of Library Science on June 9, 1947, only two years after Simmons was granted the right to award degrees to men. According to information obtained from Archives, those seven men are the only men who have received undergraduate degrees to date.

Registrar Donna Dolan said there are 13 men enrolled in undergraduate classes at Simmons this semester. Nine of the men, she said, are Patricia Ostrander, a former member of the Simmons Corporation, was recently sentenced to two months in prison and ordered to pay $100,000 in fines after being convicted in July for taking a bribe from junk-bond king Michael Milken, according to The Boston Globe. The federal judge who sentenced her, who has a reputation for handing out harsh sentences for white-collar crime, according to the Globe, stayed the sentence until after Ostrander's attorneys filed an appeal.

Ostrander was indicted last October on charges that she accepted kickbacks from Milken's MacPherson Investment Partners. According to past Globe and Simmons News articles, Ostrander accepted payment for buying and selling Drexel Burnham Lambert, Inc. junk bonds for her customers.

It was alleged that Ostrander, a Brookline resident, made more than $750,000 from interest in the special fund in 1986 and 1987. Federal prosecutors also charged that Ostrander was one of Milken's most loyal customers for his infamous junk bonds.

Ostrander, 53, who faced a maximum of 13 years in jail and a $750,000, was quoted in The Globe by her attorney Harry Manion as being "extremely excited," about the decision.

"'We're not exactly partying," said Manion last Tuesday after the decision was made. "But I'm going to sleep a lot better tonight than I did last night,'" Ostrander was reportedly "extremely emotional."

Ostrander and her attorney have reason to be happy. Under federal rules, "sentences are [customarily] executed immediately unless a finding is made that an appeal could reverse the conviction, "according to the Globe article. But Ostrand-

Princess of Thailand paying royal visit to Simmons today

By Michelle Purdum
Editorial Staff

Royalty will pay a visit to Simmons today in the form of her Royal Highness Princess Maha Chakri Sirindhorn of Thailand, who is coming to witness the celebrations commemorating the 100th birthday of her grandfather, His Royal Highness Prince Mahidol of Songkla, a 1928 graduate of Harvard Medical School. Festivities at both Simmons and Harvard begin with today's visit to Simmons and continue through Saturday, concluding with a dedication ceremony at Harvard Saturday.

It was while studying at Harvard that the Prince met and married Princess Sirindhorn's grandmother, Her Royal Highness Somdej Phra Sri Nakarindra Boromarajajonnani, Thailand's current Princess Mother, who later studied at Simmons.

Thai students at Simmons expressed excitement about the impending visit. Junior Kritima Bulsook said that it is an honor for Simmons to receive the Princess, and a special opportunity for students from Thailand to meet a member of the royal family. "It's great that she's coming here. It's hard to get so close to her in Bangkok," said Bulsook.

Junior Mona Siwarungsan agreed. "In Thailand we're not allowed to make eye contact with her," she said. "We're not allowed to even face her." During today's visit, these students will greet the Princess upon her arrival, and will have many chances to meet with her personally. Siwarungsan's relatives are already jealous that she may be the only family member ever to meet royalty, and she plans to brag a little when she returns home. "You're going to remember it for your whole life," she said.

According to Vice President Carol Leary, the Princess will leave a meeting with Lt. Gov. A. Paul Cellucciat the State House to arrive here by noon today. She will enter through the 300 The Fenway entrance, through an honor guard of Simmons Thai students, and will be introduced to some of the Simmons faculty and staff who were instrumental in preparing for her visit. She will then proceed to the Fens for an honorary luncheon. She will then officially open an exhibit honoring the Princess Mother, showing in the Special Functions Room today and tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Of the nearly 200 people who will attend the luncheon, some dignitaries include the U.S. Ambassador to the Thailand, the Thai Ambassador to the U.S., the Thai Ambassador to Canada, the Thai Ambassador to Mexico, the Minister of Education from Thailand, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, the Deputy Secretary for Public Health, the President of Mahidol University in Thailand, the President of Chulalongkorn University, a group of Thai doctors, and 40 members of the Thai Nurses' Association.

Due to the status of the visitors, security will be an issue. Manager of Security Gayla Feagin said that extra security will be hired for today, and Leary said that the Princess will also be traveling with her security force. The Fens Cafeteria will be closed until 4 p.m. to accommodate the party, and The Fenway will be closed so the Princess' limousine can deliver her and pick her up unhampered by local traffic.

By Laura Moreschi Contributing Reporter

A committee that has explored housing options for L.I.F.E. students has decided that the best way to solve problematic living situations is to take a dorm off-line, according to Shellie Broadley, Arnold Hall president and one of the four students in the committee.

While the committee does not have the final say, they make recommendations to President Holmes, who will make the final decision.

"That dorm will be essentially off-line," said Broadley. They will create a co-ed international house. Though the residents would be primarily L.I.F.E. students, Simmons women would have the opportunity to live there if they like. Marcus Buckley, business manager and head of the committee said "there are a number of our women who have expresses a pretty serious interest in living in [an international] house."

The committee has not yet decided which dorm will be chosen. There are many factors to consider, and the choices have been narrowed down to Morse, Mesick, Arnold, and Dix based on structural qualifications alone.

The results of an informal poll that Broadley took of the women in Arnold was "overwhelmingly negative," showing, she said, that having L.I.F.E. students integrated with another dorms breaks apart the community at the dorm.

There seems to be no debate over whether or not the program will be here next year. Buckley said that it is a "self-perpetuating contract [that] can be terminated with proper notice by either part."

When asked if he foresaw any problems with the contract (which automatically continues unless otherwise decided), he has had about the L.I.F.E. program he "didn't hear anybody say that [Simmons] should get out of the contract.

Buckley recognizes the "serious issues regarding the living conditions," but added that the advantages the program brings to Simmons far out weigh the disadvantages and he's optimistic that the problems on the residence campus will be solved. ❑

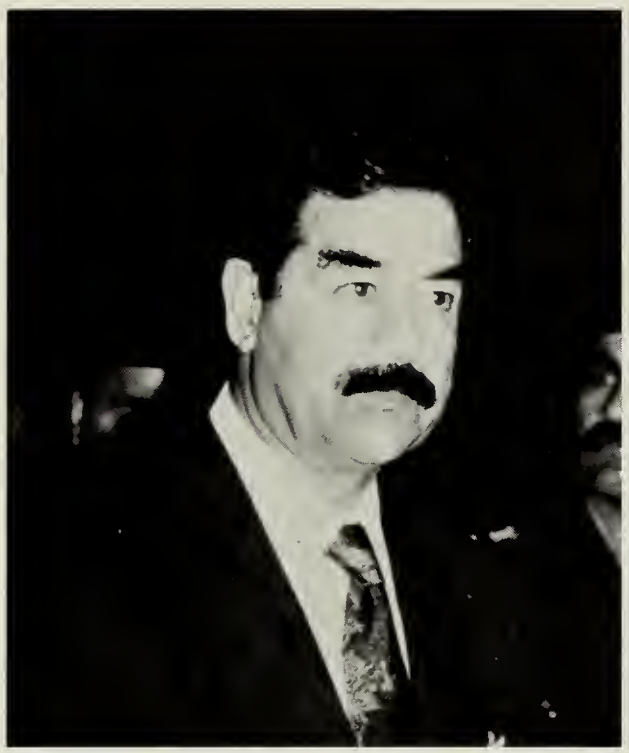
WORLD NEWS



Saddam Hussein is alive and well and living in Bagdad according to most accounts. The Mideast War ended in February, 1991. Since that day, Ex President George Bush has urged the downfall of the 55 year old leader. But within Iraq, Saddam Hussein appears to have grown only stronger since his troops were forced out of Kuwait. However, he lives under a constant threat by Iraqi opposition leaders and a host of other enemies. It was because of this fear of assassination that he reorganized his personal bodyguard corps and appointed his youngest son, Qusai, as chief of presidential security.

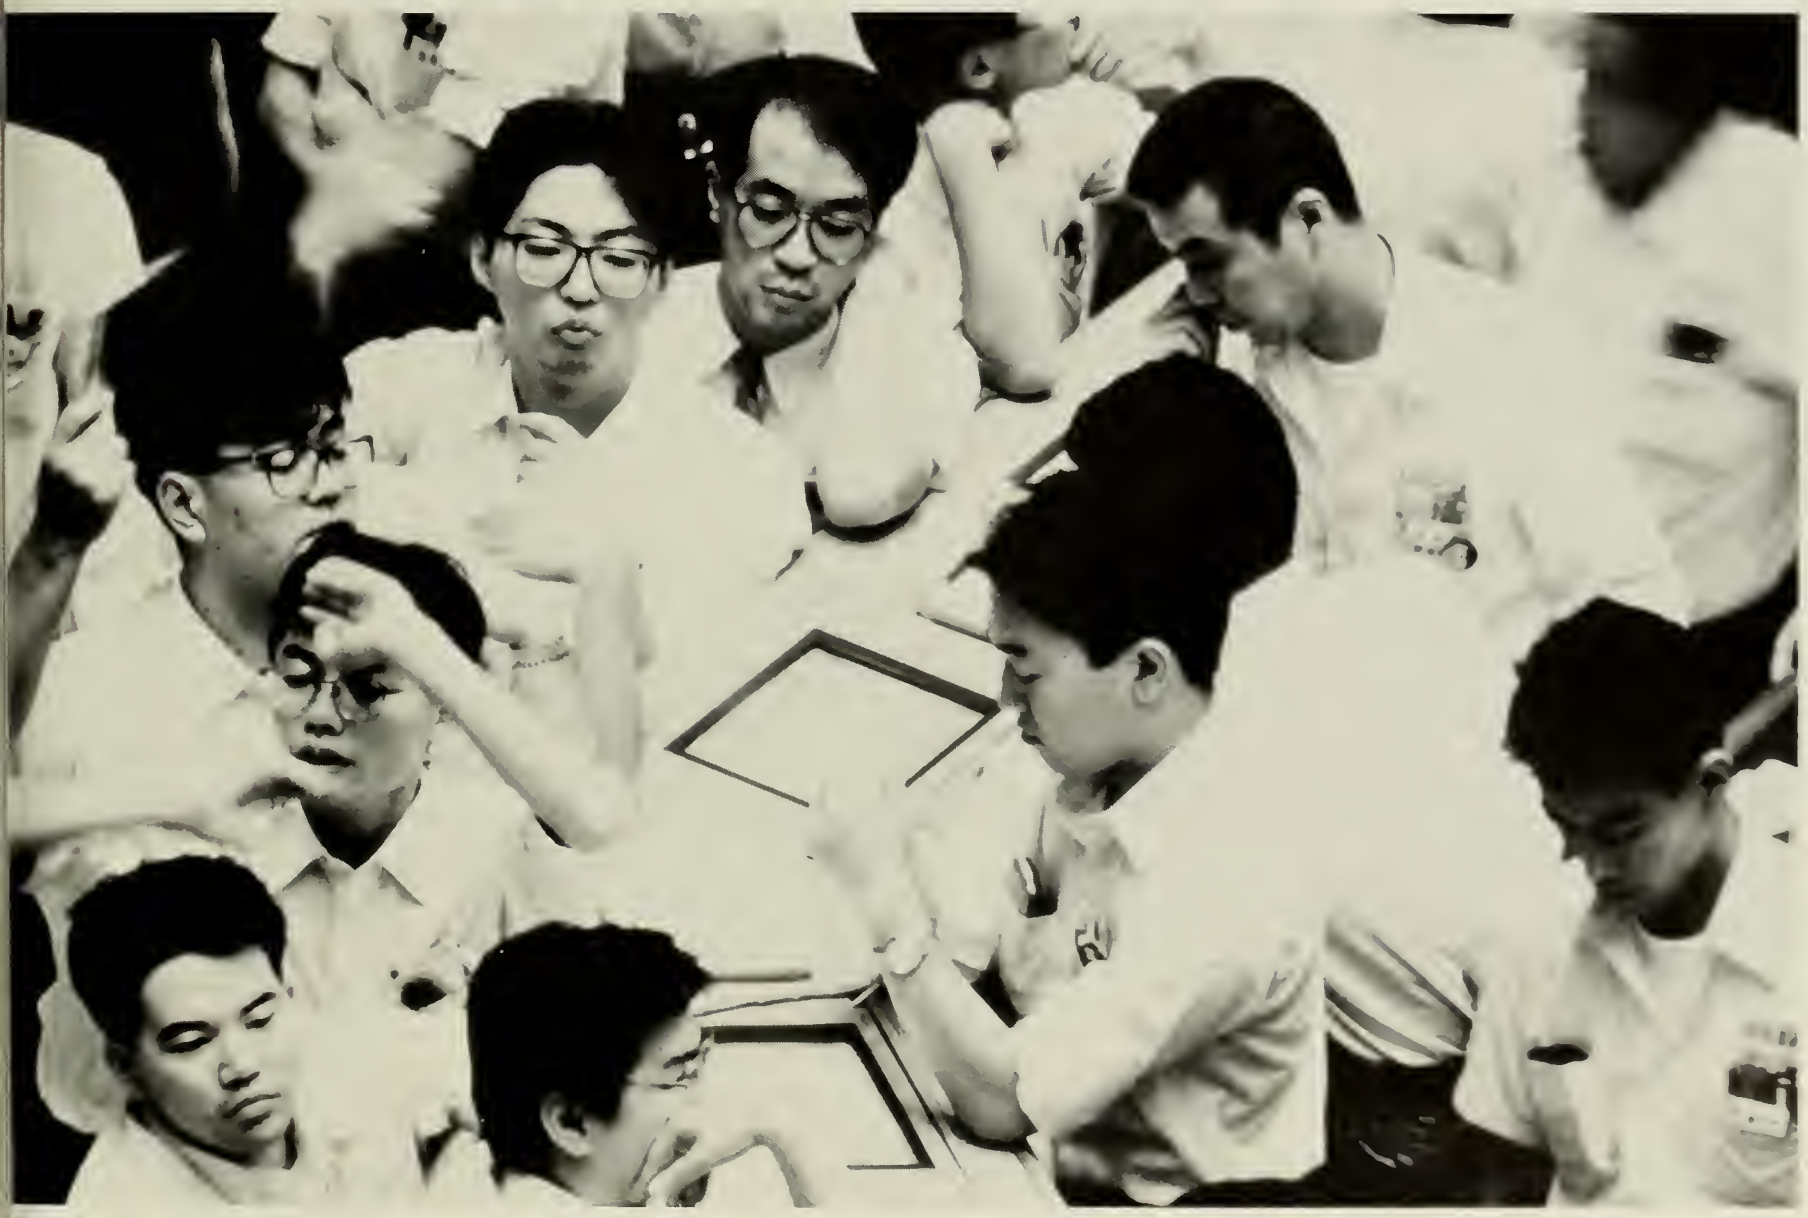
Civil war spread across Yugoslavia, a nation of six republics and two provinces that had been plagued for centuries by historic ethic, religious and economic differences. Nationalist, anti-Communist parties won elections in 1991 in all republics excepts Serbia and Montenegro. Then Croatia and its neighbor Slovenia declared their independence.

WORLD NEWS

in 1991 Boris Yeltsin was elected president of the Russian Federation. One of his top priorities was economic reform. But the gloomy economic condition reflected the grave difficulties he and his government faced in trying to build a market economy on the ruins of the failed Soviet Communist system. While attempting to establish economic and political ties abroad, Yeltsin s reforms at home increased prices by as much as 1500 percent during the first part on 1992. And many Russians felt that the reforms had damaged their living standard significantly.

In early 1992, Boutros Boutros-Ghali became the world's top diplomat - the secretary General of the United Nations.

The prices on the Tokyo Stock Exchange once seamed so invulnerable to the laws of gravity that they came to symbolize Japan's meteoric rise as the dominant world economic power. When the Nikkei Stock Average, the main index of the Tokyo Stock Exchange, began slipping in 1990, economists said the weakening financial markets had little to do with Japan's "real" economy, which was still going strong. In 1992, they say that not only does the Nikkei's weakness reflect a return to reality, but its fall could threaten Japan's economic health.



NATIONAL NEWS

When Rodney King was stopped by the police on a Los Angeles freeway, police say he resisted them and was beaten. Someone videotaped the melee and released the tape to local television stations. It received national attention, and four white officers were charged in the beating of King, who was black. But when a jury found the officers innocent of any wrong doing, three days of rioting hits Los Angeles! When it ended, 52 people were dead, 2383 were injured, 18,807 were arrested, and the amount of property damage was estimated to be $785 million.

Unemployment was one of the major issue during the presidential campaign. The unemployment rate had risen from 5.2 %, when President Bush took office in 1988, to over 7% on Election Day, 1992. That meant 9.7 million Americans were out of work. And according to Labor Department projections, there will be 30 % more college graduates than college level jobs from now until 2005.

The Environmental Protection Agency issued rules aimed at curbing industrial air pollution. The new rules outlined when businesses must obtain state pollution control permits under the Clean Air Act. Environmental groups, such as the Sierra Club, lead the charge against polluters. The Clean Air Act requires businesses to meet new clean air requirements by reducing toxic emissions and releases that contribute to smog. Under the rule, states issue pollution control permits, and the EPA monitors state programs to make certain they comply with federal rules.

When George Bush's campaign for the presi dency began to falter, he turned to his longtim friend James A. Baker III for help. Baker took leave from his duties as Secretary of State and join the re-election campaign to get it back on track. Baker was repeating the role he performed in 1988, when he quit as President Reagan's treasury secretary to run then - Vice President Bush's campaign. He travels little with the Ex-President preferring to stage - manage events from the White House.

NATIONAL NEWS

Ex-President George Bush and his running mate, Dan Quayle, were the incumbents. The challengers were Arkansas Governor Bill Clinton and Tennessee Senator. Al Gore as his running mate. And then there was Ross Perot, the on-again, off again independent candidate. Bush kept Qualye as his running mate in 1992, the two arrived at the GOP convention in Houston as underdogs to the Clinton/Gore ticket. During the GOP convention, the impression the Bush strategists sought to convey was that president was the true agent of change and the Clinton was slick and unreliable. For the Democrats, the economy - and Bush's perceived mishandling of it - remained the main message that they hammered again and again. After the Democratic convention in New York City, the Clinton/Gore ticket was far ahead in the polls.

The wives of the Democratic candidates, Hillary Clinton and Tipper Gore, were very active in the campaign - Mrs. Clinton, a tough-minded lawyer, and Tipper Gore, a crusader to for warning labels on albums with explicit lyrics. Both women were tireless campaigners for the Clinton/Gore ticket.

On the Republican side, Ex-First Lady Barbara Bush has been standing quietly by her husband. Marilyn Quayle is the quintessential suburban mother involved in PTA, Little League and school plays.

Hurricane Andrew carved its way through the Bahamas and hit south Florida with a powerhouse intensity before moving into Louisiana. The hurricane's 54-hour rampage, the most expensive natural disaster ever to hit this country, left an estimated 180,000 homeless in Florida alone. At least 51 deaths were directly attributed to the storm - 41 in Florida and 10 in Louisiana. The amount of damage was estimated at $20 billion in Florida and nearly $2 billion in Louisiana.
Hurricane Iniki dealt a direct blow to part of the Hawaiian Islands in September. Winds gusting up to160mph and torrential rain hit Kauai, causing enormous damage. It was the most powerful hurricane to hit the Hawaiian Islands this century.

AXL ROSE Guns N' Roses

Guns N' Roses has a tendency to get a little rowdy during their concerts. In St. Louis, 40 concert-goers and 25 police officers were injured in a melee that erupted after the singer Axl Rose leaped from the stage to take a camera from a fan and then angrily stormed off, abruptly ending the show. He was arrested & charged with 4 misdemeanor assault counts.

"The Red Hot Chili Peppers have no preconceived notions; we just do whatever comes out," says drummer Chad Smith. Their latest album "Blood Sugar Sex Magik", hit the top of the charts as soon as it was released. The album is the second with the current band members, who formed six months after the 1988 death of founding guitarist Hillel Slovak and the subsequent departure of drummer Jack Irons. The album features a quieter, more thoughtful side of the Chili Peppers.

Basketball great Larry Bird retired from the Boston Celtics after a 13-year career. "When I played, I played as hard as I could. That's what I want to be remembered for." The 35 year old Bird was plagued by back problems for the last two seasons of his career. His brilliant passing, pinpoint shooting and rebounding made him the consummate team player.

What aWorld of Difference

Hi Everyone,

It has been my most hectic year in college, yet it was also my most fulfilling year thus far. I want to thank Simmons College for giving me such a great opportunity to produce this yearbook. This experience will be with me forever.

To the class of 1993, it was a pleasure to be able to give you this unreplaceable book. Not only is this your yearbook, it is also MY yearbook. I hope you are happy with what I was able to offer you and I hope I was able to show you how each individual can make a difference. You have survived the Microcosm world at Simmons, now I have faith you can make a world of difference in the real world.

I want to thank Student Activities for their guidance for we, Microcosm do not have an in-campus advisor. To Tom Keeley, our advisor and publishing representative, thank you for your guidance, support, encouragement, understanding, and patience. I would also like to recognize the registrars office, Al at the copy center, and the mailroom for their patience and help.

To all those who stuck with me throughout the year, your dedication is greatly appreciated. Thanks to all my friends who beared with me through all those sleepless nights. A special thanks to Sarah Furbush who would always volunteer her time whenever I needed help.

This book has made a world of difference to me. Thanks again everybody!!

Yours truly,
